Course Description:

This course is designed to help prospective public school principals better understand the foundational aspects of educational administration. It presents an analysis of conceptual, technical, and human resource skills associated with administrative and supervisory behavior in schools. It further emphasizes the foundations of leadership, communication, decision-making and human resource management.

Course Expectations:

The success of this class depends on the thoughtful, engaged participation of all class members. You should be well prepared to discuss all assigned readings and cases. Because classroom discussions are most productive when a variety of voices shape the dialogue, I ask you to come ready to participate as both a speaker and a listener. It is the responsibility of all class members to make room for, and to learn from, individuals with different views and different ways of engaging in public conversation. This means honoring the participation of others by respecting, critiquing, and building on the ideas of those who have spoken before you.

Report A- Analysis of Lincoln School Case Study- Due March 6, 2017
(Foundations “Demonstration Task” for Student Portfolio- See Demonstration Task Rubric and e-mail instructions on Sakai Resources)

- Read the case study “Scott O’Neill and Lincoln Elementary School by Michael Salmonowicz. (in Sakai Resources)
- Put yourself in the role of Principal O’Neill. It is your responsibility in your first year as principal to organize and lead the reshaping of Lincoln Elementary to meet the needs of all its students and restore high levels of academic performance.
- Write a 10-12 page paper (double-spaced) providing your analysis of the school’s situation and your action plan(s) to address the identified issues. Be sure your discussion covers each of the topics outlined below.

Objectives of Assignment:

- Critically examine a realistic case study; identify the issues to be addressed and develop a strategy for action.
- Apply the ISLLC standards to the proposed strategy.
- Practice writing a concise, complete action plan.
- Practice providing sound rationale for proposed actions.

A. Analysis of School Situation

- Carefully study the facts presented in the case study.
- Identify the three (3) most important issues that face Lincoln School at present.
- Be sure to provide rationale for why you have categorized an issue as “most important.”
- It is the principal’s responsibility to remedy each of these “most important” issues. In considering corrective actions, it is essential that a clear picture of the desired end results be established. For each issue that you have identified, present a concise statement of the desired results that must be achieved to correct that issue.
- Accurately determining the achievement of desired results is an important step in any proactive corrective action. Identify what specific measures you can use as principal to determine if the school has successfully addressed each “most important” issue.

B. Develop 3 Action Plans to Address the Priority Issues during one School Year

- Develop a specific, detailed action plan to address each “important issue” and achieve the desired results within one (1) school year.
- As principal, it will be your responsibility to lead and monitor the implementation of each plan.
- In preparing your plans it may be helpful to consider the findings of D. L. Duke (Sakai Resources) in his study of organizational issues commonly found in schools that implemented improvement efforts (Duke, 2006). Duke found that schools seeking to improve were successful if they addressed:
 - * Assistance
 - * Collaboration
 - * Use of Data
 - * Leadership
 - * Organizational Structure
 - * Staff Development
 - * Alignment
 - * Assessment
 - * High Expectations
 - * Parental Involvement
 - * Scheduling

- Be sure that your plan for each issue includes a concrete way to assess achievement of the desired results.
- Please organize the written presentation of your plans as three separate discussions, one per each issue.
- You may choose to present your plans in chart or essay format. However, be sure that all details are covered in your choice of format.

C. Connect Your Plans with the ISLLC Standards

- Conclude your paper with a brief discussion of how your three plans align with the ISLLC standards.
- How are the actions that you propose consistent with the six ISLLC standards that guide educational administrative practice?
- You may choose to discuss the alignment for each plan separately, or discuss alignment for the combined activities of all three plans.
- Be sure to consider all six (6) standards in your discussion.

NEW JERSEY STANDARDS FOR SCHOOL LEADERS/ISLLC Standards

Standard One: School administrators shall be educational leaders who promote the success of all students by facilitating the development, articulation, implementation and stewardship of a vision of learning that is shared and supported by the school community.

Standard Two: School administrators shall be educational leaders who promote the success of all students by advocating, nurturing, and sustaining a school culture and instructional program conducive to student learning and staff professional growth.

Standard Three: School administrators shall be educational leaders who promote the success of all students by ensuring management of the organization, operations and resources for a safe, efficient and effective learning environment.

Standard Four: School administrators shall be educational leaders who promote the success of all students by collaborating with families and community members, responding to diverse community interests and needs, and mobilizing community resources.

Standard Five: School administrators shall be educational leaders who promote the success of all students by acting with integrity, fairness and in an ethical manner.

Standard Six: School administrators shall be educational leaders who promote the success of all students by understanding, responding to and influencing the larger political, social, economic, legal and cultural context.

Report B.: The Context of Your School- Due May 1, 2017

To complete this assignment, you must be able to discuss the various contexts in which your school operates. You should check your district and school's web sites, and any district and school-sponsored publications in determining the pressing issues that are currently confronting your school and district. It might be very helpful to see where your district and school "stand" in relation to the state DOE website (DFG's, etc.).

Furthermore, your local newspaper can be a gold mine of information--particularly in the editorial/op-ed section. You should also be able to describe the school's physical plant as well as the community in which it is located.

You will need to take fairly detailed notes throughout your data collection. Please note how school personnel interact with different constituents and the quality of these interactions (for ex., warm, business-like, brusque, hostile, etc.). You may wish to interview several teachers and principals regarding their perceptions of your school contexts, if space permits. Students are strongly encouraged to begin their data collection early in the semester so they will have enough time to analyze their data and complete their reports.

Report B will consist of 15-18 computer-written pages. YOU WILL NOT USE ACTUAL NAMES OF INDIVIDUALS, SCHOOLS OR SCHOOL DISTRICTS. Pseudonyms are fine and can be very descriptive. Report B should introduce the reader to your district and then the school in question by presenting relevant demographic, SES and DFG data. Only once the district and the school are introduced may the report proceed to the analytic section. This section MUST draw on the research presented in Hoy and Miskel and supplemental readings. Report B may address the actions of students, parents, teachers, administrators, as well as janitorial staff and the like.

Grading

Class discussion regarding the assigned readings and their relevance to current practice is a vital component of this class. Additionally, each student is expected to complete two reports that examine the culture of your school. The professor expects professionally written reports and will grade accordingly.

Grades will be assigned on a point-basis. Class discussion regarding the assigned readings and their relevance to current practice is a vital component of this class. Students will be evaluated on the basis of participation in all course activities, presentation of ideas, and quality of written assignments. All assignments must be posted to Sakai Assignments on the stipulated dates they are due. No late assignments will be accepted. Students are reminded of the Rutgers Academic Integrity Policy, which governs all class activities and assignments. [<http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/>]
